PLAYING THE RACES.

The Enormous Fortunes Won and Lost on the American Turf.

THE STORY OF DAVE JOHNSON. Penniless Last Year, Now Worth a Quarter

HOW BIG PLUNGERS FINALLY LOSE ALL of a Million.

IWRITTEN FOR THE DISPATOR.1 The conditions surrounding the turf in this country and in England are so entirely different that it would perhaps be far easier to institute a contrast than a comparison. There is no manner of doubt for example that far greater sums of money are wagered on the result of big races on the English race tracks than are wagered here, and that a greater number of men there place small fortunes on the issue o: these two and three minute contests. The consequence is that when we read, as we have had an opportunity of reading recently, that Mr. Ernest Benson, more generally known as Jubilee Juggins, was quite in the habit of losing $250,000 on a single race meeting or of winning an equal sum, the statement carries with it a certain amount of surprise, and when he declares that he backed Bendigo to win £16,000, or $80,000, running in the Jubilee stakes at Kempton, it seems almost incredible that a human being would stake on a single chance money enough to carry along a man almost in luxury for his entire existence. But it must not be supposed that such performances are altogether un-

GAMBLERS WHO BRAG.

The amount of betting generally here may not be so great or for such extravagant amounts, which are common enough in England, but on the other hand there are a number of cases where just as large sums of money have been won and lost on the turf in America as in any other country in the world. This may not, of course, be a subject or boast niness, and it is because Americans who have lost and won these immense ortunes are not in the habit of boasting and don't write a book anent their experiences that Mr. Benson's narrative of his wn career on the English race tracks has appealed to newspaper readers with all the fascination of romance and has, during the past fortnight, attracted the widest kind of comment and attention.

The only people who tell stories of mar velous winnings on the tur: which a ter-ward get into the newspapers are very small plungers indeed, who win a few long shots and then satisfy their vanity by exaggerat-ing their good fortune. The men who really win and lose big money say very little about it. It is known for example that Dave Johnson, who may be seen any evening in the Hoffman House cafe or the lobby of the St. James Hotel, started in this year without a dollar o: his own, and began as a bookmaker with a few thousand borrowed money kindly loaned him by a triend in St. Louis, Last year he ended the season dead broke. He didn't start in this year until the Baltimore and Washington meeting, but at the conclusion of the meeting at Sheepshead Bay it was known that he was a very heavy winner on the season, and finished up with a tortune which an ordinary business man would look on as the BASIS FOR A COMPETENCY.

Johnson is a tall, handsome fellow with dark eyes and a generously proportioned mustache, straight leatures, a calm and indeed an absolutely imperturbable good manner and is always well dressed. He is today probably the most industrious and persistent plunger on the American turf. He is a bookmaker, to be sure, but he does not make books in the mathematical and conservative way advocated by the mere coldrecklessly lays odds on animals which he likes. A bookmaker who does business after this tashion can scarcely be called a bookmaker at all. He is practically backing horses instead of laying odds against them, and in brief is paying a bookmaker's rental of about $100 a day for the privilege of plunging.

John Macdonald, who is also a bookmaker, but or the modern plunging kind, has the reputation of being the most successful man who has made a book at the various race meetings this season. He is credited with having won at least $200,000 since last May and many good authorities put it up to $250,000. These results are quite equal to auvthing that Johnson has ever achieved but probably do not exceed them. It is known that one time Johnson went down to the meetings at Baltimore and Washington $68,000 behind and came away $30,000 winner. In other words he had won practically $100,000 during the progress of those two brief meetings. Macdonald and Dave Gideon, who has also a reputation for plunging are understood to be at dagger points now over a turf experience in which they both figured and which is now two or three years old.

TWO NOTED PLUNGERS. The two most notable plungers on the American turi during the past five years have undoubtedly been Waiton and Bernard. Walton and Bernard figured in the betting ring about the same time and were known as the plunger and the little plunger, although when it is stated that Bernard at one time had $100,000 on a single race, that is to say when Gowana ran in the Withers four years ago, exactly where the appropriateness of the description of "little" comes in is difficult to see. However, they were known as "the plunger" and "the dipper," and it is stated, and generally believed, that five or six years ago Walton left the Monmouth Park meeting at the end of the season at least $500,000 ahead. The next year he carried this over to England with him, or at least a great part of it, and not only lost all the money he had, but lost money that he didn't have at all. In fact, he failed to meet the obligations he contracted on English turf toward the last of his experiences there, and settled his losses for 1 shilling on the pound.

The story of Bernard is as interesting as any of them, and ends as all the others do with practical bankraptcy of the plunger. Beruard began about six or seven years ago and won $150,000 in the course of a single season, and with this $150,000 bought a number of fast horses which he ran under the name of the Clipsiani stables. He was remarkably fortunate, and everything he touched seemed to turn into money. As soon as he had become a stable owner, however, his luck seemed to turn, and in a short time he was completely wiped out.

LUCKY MILLIONAIRES. The stories which always appear in print toward the end of the racing season, and which describe the successes of small plungers, are usually exaggerations. A vell-known business man who is popularly supposed to be a millionaire, won a few thousand dollars at Saratoga this summer, and inside of 48 hours the gossips of the track had multiplied if to $25,000, and this story was published. This millionaire, by the way, is one of the fortunate beings who put a little money on Remsen the second or third day of the Saratoga meeting and got back $1,000 on a $20 when Remsen won. The winner afterward stated that he had put $10 on Remsen besides his $20, and the re-sulting $500 had been won by a fellow mil-lionaire, who was frightened to death lest the fact of his having bet on the races should come out. A $500 winning on Remsen, it may be mentioned, was the begin-ning of the good luck of Gwynn Tompkins, who won a good deal or money during the meeting, and at the end of the season purchused Hindoocraft and one or two other

erack horses. A FORTUNATE TRIO

William Walker, Andrew Thompson and Charles Jordan, three colored men, started in at the West Chester meeting and won $16,500 in that one day, and this partnership or colored plungers is said to have ended the season with innings amounting to $120,-000. Walker is about 35 years old and used to be a pretty good jockey. He rode Ten-bracek when he beat the mile record in 1:39%. When he could no longer ride he began to train horses, and finally, procuring a backer, bought a small stable. The stable this year included Phonix, Heatherton, who was winner at Saratoga, and B. B. Million. Now that he has $240,000 or more, Walker says he has had enough of the turf for the present. He sold his horses recently and realized $11,650. He sold B, B. Million to his plunging partner, Andrew Thompson, for $2,000, and disposed of his other horses at good prices. Thompson was also a jockey at one time, but last year trained for J. D. Morrissey. With his money he is going into the business that Walker is going out of. In other words, he is buying horses this year included Phonix, Heatherton, of. In other words, he is buying horses and will own a stable next year. Charles Jordan, the third plunger in the partnership, is also buying horses. He gave over $3,000 recently for a half brother to Master-piece by Spendthrift. Jordan is said to be one of the most reckless gamblers in the whole darkey fraternity. He bets heavily and bets everything he has, and the consequence is that he is usually broke. If he has $100 in his clothes he bets $99 and pays $1 or his break ast. He has $50,000 now, and the bookmakers say they have simply loaned it to him. They expect to win it back.

A SOUTHSIDE PARK.

Within Easy Reach of All Parts of the Old City.

There has been much discussion in the newspapers recently about public parks. All will admit the necessity and advantage of the same. It may not be known by everybody that just over the hills of the Southside, within easy reach of the entire city by street cars and incline planes, there now is a most delight ul park of many acres in extent, where the tired, weary toilers of the city, sur-rounded by charming beds of flowers and ovely lawns that skirt the borders of the handsomely shaded avenues, may enjoy the beauties of nature and hear the notes of the many feathered songsters as they will fill the air with their joyous strains—and where they can revel in the bright sunlight and enjoy the cooling winds, which bring health and color to the cheeks of the children and invalid and joy to the heart of everyone. This park is accessible to all, and what is better, any one can have a beautiful home in the very midst of it, which can be secured on such terms as have never be equaled Knoxville borough is an entire park.

Every street is a pretty park. Every house is a lovely little park. A walk along its shaded avenues is promenade through a park. Just read what chances for a home in the midst of this beautiful park are here given: A splendid 7-room brick house with all modern improvements for $500 cash and $35 per month. A fine 6-room brick house, $300 to $500 cash, $30 to $33 per month. A 4-room brick house, $300 cash, 25 per month.

A 5-room frame house, $200 cash, $20 per month. A 4-room brick cottage, $200 cash, $17 50 per month.

A 3-room brick cottage, $200 cash, $15 per month. You are cordially invited to visit the

ART IN THE GAS CITY

Growth of Intellectual Culture Evinced by the Appreciation of

THE EXPOSITION ART GALLERY.

A Very Creditable Exhibit by the School of Design.

GOSSIP ABOUT OUR LOCAL PAINTERS

The attendance at the Exposition galleries continues as large as ever, or it may perhaps show even an increase in numbers, and what is equally gratifying to the management the expressions of approval and appreciation are still as numerous and as hearty. Almost all temperaments and conditions may be seen, and soon after the doors are opened the galleries begin to fill with people, and at 10 P. M., when the Exposition closes, the crowds seem loath to leave. From room to room of the spacious galleries the throngs move incessantly; the young and old, the grave and gay, all seek-ing pleasure in that highest of all orms in which it is combined with intellectual culture and improvement.

A painting that attracts a great deal of attention is a portrait of the late William Shaw. The frame of the picture is draped in black, and it occupies a prominent position, as it hangs on the line in one of the galleries. It is the work of Mr. John J. Hammer, recently of this city but now in New York. A perfect little gem of a water-color is the landscape by W. Hamilton Gibson entitled "Upland Meadows." It combines beautiful color with a fine effect of sunlight and a masterly rendering perspective. Mr. Thomas Moran's "Towers of Colorado River" is scarcely up to that artist's usual standard of work; the coloring is a trifle crude, par-ticularly in the red tint on the clouds, and it does not show the vigor of handling characteristic of his best works. About the same criticism would apply to his "A North-easter," a scene on Long Island.

NATURE LOOKS BEST IN DAYLIGHT. Mr. George Hetzel's picture, "A Scene in Western Pennsylvania." is quite a departure from that artist's usual style of work and it is a picture that, well as it looks under its present conditions, would appear vastly better if seen in daylight, This is the case with all good pictures, but it is particularly true of those in which green is the predominating color, as they suffer more than any others by being shown in artificial light. Miss Olive Turney's "Summer Fields" is one of her best and most "Summer Fields" is one of her best and most pleasing works.

The exhibit made by the School of Design is very creditable so far as it goes, but it might easily have been made more extensive, as there has been some really clever work turned out by its pupils recently that has not found a place on the walts. As might be expected, work in design forms an important item in this exhibit, and a study of some of the examples shown would lead one to think that the institution was appropriately named, or, rather, that it has well carried out the object for which it was founded. Of the present exhibit, however, paintings in water color form the leading feature, and there are shown some very good examples in this class of works, among which Miss Mary Boyd's study of annunciation lilies deserves and receives a great deal of notice, and is very generally admired.

A SURPRISE TO ARTISTS.

A SURPRISE TO ARTISTS. In four of the larger of the eight rooms com prising the galleries are gathered together, works by American artists located in different works by American artists located in different parts of the country, principally in and about New York, and also works by noted European painters, such as Rico, Vibert, Carpentier, Stevens and many others. On the walls of these four rooms hang from 400 to 500 paintings, and the names mentioned above, together with a large number of Americans of such celebrity as Gibson, Eaton. Hamilton, the Morans and many who are scarcely less well known to fame, would give standing to any exhibition at which their works were shown.

That artists whose pictures are exhibited are well pleased at finding the display to be such that it is a credit to them to have their works included among the number is fully evidenced by letters which Manager Johns is constantly receiving. One artist, a letter from whom came to hand wasterday magning writes in a receiving. One artist, a letter frequ whom came to hand yesterday morning, writes, in a spirit of humility and self depreciation as rare as it is commendable, that when he saw that the balance of the collection was of such excellence he was surprised to find that any of his pictures had been hung. Whatever else may be said, one thing is certain and that is that there has never before been such a line collection of art works shown in this city, and it is reasonably safe to predict that there will not be again until the Exposition opens next year. Those who have not yet seen this exhibit will do well to avail themselves of the opportunities afforded them during the three weeks which yet remain before the many valuable and important paintings will be returned able and important paintings will be returned to the various places from which they have

THE large piece of painted tapestry shown at Eichbaum's is the work of Mrs. M. A. Maccord, of Mt. Washington, who is now studying in New York. The subject is a female figure reaching upward toward some blossoming branches overhanging a wall. THE "Andromache," by Sir Frederick Leighton, is certainly one of the finest paintings which that celebrated artist has yet produced. The composition is a fine one, and the large number of figures introduced are excellently well drawn, while the arrangement of tight and shade and of light and dark in local color is extremely pleasing. A fine photogravure of this work is shown at Boyd's.

Among a large number of sketches which Mr. Geo. Hetzel has brought from the banks of the Connoquenessing is one that forms a com-plete and most satisfactory picture just as it was sketched from nature, and without any additional touches whatever. Although the same might be said of most of Mr. Heizel's sketches, it is particularly true of the work in question. The subject represents a springhouse embowered in trees, and in color it is one of the strongest and richest works which this artist heaven.
